Version 1.1

Meet the Moomin

Learn what they are and how they will help you reach the moon!

Moomin family are trolls. They live in their house in Moominvalley and have any adventures with their friends. Moomin is famous for being interested and excited about everything he sees and finds, always trying to be good, but sometimes getting into trouble while doing so.

Tokenomics:

- Transaction tax—10%
 - Reflection—5%
 - Marketing fund—3%
 - Developer fund—2%
- Total supply
 - 10,000,000,000 (10 Trillion)
- Initial locked liquidity
 - 100% locked for 1 year

Moomin token is good

BUT HE MIGHT GET IN TROUBLE IN DOING SO

Trouble distribution equals reflection

Holders earn passive rewards through static reflection, watching their balances grow

Marketing fund

Marketing fund receives part of transaction tax, helping fund the further growth ensuring trouble finds his way to every holder

Trouble distribution—Reflection

In order to reward our token holders, 2 percentage points of the fee will be distributed to all token holders. In effect, this means that you will see your token amount rise as long as you have $MOONIN tokens in your wallet. The more volume $MOONIN has, the more passive income you'll receive

Marketing fund

The cryptocurrency space is highly competitive and one needs a vast amount of resources and tireless workers to ensure that the name of their token gets out there rather than buried under the never-ending flood of new additions. We will use 3 percentage points of the fee to pay for advertisements, partnerships, and exchange listings. At the time of writing, we've already made use of these funds to collaborate with crypto influencers, highlight our token on various cryptocurrency websites, and promote it on social media. Developer fund

The cryptocurrency space is all the same. We will be different. Moomin needs to grow and develop! New features, interesting incentives along with integrations with other tokens creating complex tokenomics takes developer time. This time will be valued and the team will grow. In the future we want to integrate with other tokens so that even if moonin drops during tough times, it will bounce based on other token values. In the second stage Moonin will be transferred to its own blockchain ensuring further growth without gas limitations of Ethereum.
